MISS DIXON WINS

Officialdom of the Ontario Highway Department received a rude jolt and one which the general public will regard as well deserved, when His Honour Judge Thomas J. Darby of Lincoln County, handed down judgment on Thursday, in the case of Mildred Dixon vs. William E. Wrightman.

The defendant is an inspector of the highway permits branch. The Judge found damages for the plaintiff to the amount of $350 for the tearing down of a sign, which should have been permitted, as a matter of course, along the Queen Elizabeth Way.

The evidence showed that Wrightman had "surreptitiously," which means he sneaked, when entering the land of the plaintiff, also the land of a neighbour adjoining her property.

The Judge found the damages for trespass and for damage to the sign torn down. It becomes quite a case in the civil courts where, on one hand the plaintiff gave the warning that if anyone tried to take down her sign, he "would get a fanny full of rock salt." On the other hand, a departmental official was quoted, that if Miss Dixon took a shot at him he would "kick her teeth down her throat." Quite a case, indeed.

Judge Darby discovered from the evidence that antagonism existed between the plaintiff and the department officials and that the latter, in a state of glee entered the task of getting rid of that sign by whatever means possible. Miss Dixon could not sue the Crown so she sued Wrightman as an individual. He took the rap. That the highway department is vindictive is disclosed by the planting of trees in front of the property. Given time and nourishment this growth will hide the sign completely.

Out of the case, however, there came the revelation which affects every highway in Ontario to the building or upkeep of which the Ontario government contributes. Even township and urban roads are affected. Under section 80, the Highway Department has control of signs right on Main Street, notwithstanding a bylaw of regulation of such by the municipal council. In fact, all sidewalk and other signs are prohibited under the section quoted.

It took a determined woman, fighting her own case to have this angle of the law brought out, and it took Judge Darby to give the section its blanket interpretation.

This sign of trouble, which turned out to be a hornet's nest first appeared at El Rancho Casablanca restaurant, one mile west of Grimsby.

As an aftermath to this decision as handed down by Judge Darby, workmen of the Department of Highways planted a row of poplar trees, a half mile long, in front of Cobblestone Lodge and El Rancho Casablanca, a quarter of a mile west and a quarter of a mile east of the Ofield sidewalk on which the two tourist homes are located. This means that within a year's time these trees will have grown sufficiently to screen off Miss Dixon's signs and any that Cobblestone Lodge might have.

Is this persecution? Or is it not?

This tree planting makes only four spots on the whole Queen Elizabeth Way where a row of poplars have been planted and in each case it looks very suspiciously like a "grudge case."

The Independent has been fighting this sign situation and the action of the Department of Highways, as regards signs, for the past five years. Our main point being the fact that one department of the Ontario Government spends thousands of dollars of the peoples' money every year to attract tourists to the province, and another department prohibits and causes signs to be torn down that would give information to those tourists as to where they can obtain high class meals and overnight accommodation. The whole thing does not add up.

Probably this decision of Judge Darby's will clarify the whole situation and the sign trouble will cease to exist, at the same time, just because the Department of Highways got a slap on the wrist by the learned judge decision, through one of their workmen, is no reason why the people's money should be spent to plant a row of trees just in order to persecute Miss Dixon and the owner of the adjoining property.

The whole thing is very childish and small potatoes, but still the public does this paying, one way or another. First the public built the highways; then they spend gobs of money to get tourists to travel over them; then they are told that they cannot advertise their tourist homes and restaurants, in order that they can get revenue to pay their taxes to pay for those highways. The whole thing does not make sense.

LET NOTHING YOU DISMAY

There may not seem to be much connection between the Christmas Seal Sale and "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen" but it is the Christmas Seal Sale that usually reminds us of this particular carol.

Some carols are sweet and tender, some jolly to the point of being boisterous, but "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen," when sung out by a sturdy baritone, strikes a robust and courageous note that we need. Each year we seem to have a new need for that intrepid advice "Let nothing you dismay." The Christmas Seal Sale reminds us that it is very good advice, that we shouldn't let even large threats quell us or undermine our faith.

The progress that has been made against tuberculosis within our time should give us boldness of spirit in facing the troubles that confront our world. Let us think briefly about what has happened.

If we could have followed one of those groups of carollers who, one hundred years ago, were advising Victorian Englishmen to let nothing dismay them, and if we had asked either the singers or their audience whether "Consumption" would ever be pushed out of the place it had held for centuries as leading cause of death, probably not a person would have been found in a whole evening, or even a whole week, who would have expressed a belief that the Great White Plague could ever be defeated.

It has not been defeated yet, but in many countries, Canada among them, it has been driven far enough backward to show that complete conquest is possible if we address ourselves to the task with sufficient energy and tenacity.

Perhaps if present problems are attacked by the same methods as have been used to fight tuberculosis it will turn out that the most difficult of the riddles can be solved. After all, the progress made against TB was not brought about by a sudden miracle, but by patient work. Nor was the work confined to a few supermen. It took hundreds of scientists, thousands of doctors and millions of laymen, each doing what seemed to them their duty at the time.

It is just possible that some pessimist may be remarking to himself at this point, "But who said tuberculosis had been conquered? It hasn't been completely beaten in this country and there are still places with hundreds of millions in the population where the death rate from tuberculosis remains enormous. There are still three million of the world's people dying yearly from tuberculosis."

In so far as he goes, the pessimist is right. Those things are true. It is also true that we have not thoroughly defeated tuberculosis in Canada. Despite the fact that the death rate has been pushed down to a quarter of what it was once, there are yet almost 5,000 deaths a year from TB. The point is that we know that if we continue and expand the efforts we have made, we can wipe out tuberculosis. The remnant, sizeable though it is, will yield to intelligent work as the greater part did.

Meantime what has been accomplished keeps those who might otherwise despair from becoming hopeless. In those parts of the world where the tuberculosis death rates still soar, health workers look at what has been done in more fortunate countries and though they know it may be a long time before the same point is reached by them, they take courage from the fact that somebody had done it, therefore anyone can work and hope.

It would seem that our path is clear. First to bring what pressure we can, individually and collectively, to finishing the job of wiping out tuberculosis in this country. The Christmas Seal Sale offers us a ready way to take a share individually, and our joint effort in this annual campaign to further TB preventative service indicates to governments how strongly the public will support official action.

And while we are making this personal effort in a cause where others pioneered, let us resolve not to be dismayed by the extent of the problems in front of us, lest we let down the men and women who, when the Great White Plague was civilization's greatest menace, carried out the advice of the carollers "Let nothing you dismay."

THE FARMER'S SHARE

Hon. Tom Kennedy, Ontario's very able Minister of Agriculture, is trying to come to grips with a problem which has been defying solution for many years past. How can the producer get a more equitable share of the retail price for the produce he markets.

A recent investigation by the Minister showed that certain farmers get 59 per cent of the retail price of their cabbages, 42 per cent on carrots, 22 per cent of celery prices, and 42 to 59 per cent on potatoes. As to apples, it was discovered that when a farmer packed them in six-quart baskets, he got 76 per cent of the selling price. However, when sold by the pound out of a bushel basket, the percentage fell off to between 45 and 49.

One of the reasons for the foregoing disparities is the perishable quality of the produce and its deterioration if it has to be held on display for any length of time. For instance, if the retailer could unpack a shipment of celery and dispose of it all in the same day, he could afford to give the truck gardener more than 22 per cent of its retail sale price.

The whole thing is a tough nut to crack, and perhaps well regulated farmers' markets are the answer. Even so, the tendency on some of these markets is to boost prices even beyond those of the retail stores, thereby driving away thrifty trade.

MAPLES ARE NATIVE TO ONTARIO

(By Dr. W. Sherwood Fox, of the University of Western Ontario)

Altogether there are six species of Maples that are native to the Province of Ontario. These are: Hard or Sugar Maple, two varieties; Soft or Silver, two varieties; Red maple; Manitoba Maple. These are all trees, but in addition to them are two kinds which must be classified as tall bushes or shrubs—Moose Maple and Stripped Maple. Since these are seldom if ever planted on streets either in Goderich or elsewhere we shall make no further mention of them.

With the Maples that are of the stature of true trees Goderich is well endowed. Strange to say, the only one missing from the list is the Red Maple, the very species whose leaf is most often used as the pattern for the national emblem. If there is an example of it in Goderich—and I hope there is—I have failed to observe it. At any rate in future plantings of trees in the town Red Maple should not be overlooked. It is one of our most attractive trees. It really merits its colorful name. In the spring its buds and flowers, bunched tightly at the end of the twig, are a brilliant red. In the autumn its leaves are the first of all those of the forest to take on the same bright hue in striking contrast to the dark-green all around. The Red Maple is eminently a tree of the swamps, but when planted in the dry soil of city and town streets thrives remarkably well. The first trees of the species I ever noticed stood on the streets of Toronto and some of them are growing there yet.

The commonest of our Maples is the Hard or Sugar; there are two varieties of it, but the differences between them are for practical purposes so slight that to discuss them would only confuse the reader's mind. It is enough to say that the leaves of one are of so dark a green that the variety is given the name of Black. The Hard Maple is indeed a noble tree in every respect. In virgin hardwood forests where the trees of all kinds are crowded together the Maple soars aloft like a towering Pine in its endeavor to reach the light. Its trunk is as long and straight as the mast of a great ship. It is from such specimens as this that in the early days the pioneer lumberman got the long knotless lumber from which to make the best maple flooring and the finest furniture. Such wood was a joy to the carpenter's and cabinet-maker's heart. Even the clear-cut outline of the Hard Maple leaf suggests strength and stability.

Some trees when planted apart from the forest cannot adapt themselves to a solitary life. But the Hard Maple can, in a clearing, in a field or on the boulevard of a city street. It takes on a form that is quite distinctive; it spreads out its branches to a generous width and lifts its top into the shape of a pyramid of healthy green foliage.

Both names, Hard and Sugar, are eminently fitting. The extreme hardness of the wood of this species when compared with the softness of the Soft or Silver Maple adequately accounts for the one name. The high quantity of sugar accounts similarly for the other. But, one must note well, the Sugar is not the only maple that yields sugar. Red, Soft, and Manitoba all have a definite sugar content of some degree and all have been tapped in localities where the Sugar Maple is not known or is very scarce. Before the coming of the white man the Indians of the prairies used to get sugar from the sap of the Manitoba Maple by employing the process of successive freezings. But after all it is only the Hard Maple that has any commercial status as a producer of sugar.

The Silver (or Soft) Maple gets its name from the silvery effect produced by the wind blowing upon its foliage. What the wind does is to turn the leaf so that it displays its downy white under side. This leaf is much more deeply lobed and toothed than that of the Hard Maple. One variety is so profoundly and minutely divided as to appear to be shredded. So attractive is it that it has been extensively planted in the streets of the northern cities of North America. There are many in Goderich. The prevailing color of the Soft Maple and its variety in autumn is yellow with occasional touches of dull rose; never does it exhibit the gorgeous reds that are the glory of the Hard Maple.

The Manitoba Maple is also known as the Box Elder or Ash-leaved Maple. Why the name of the Elder was ever dragged in I cannot imagine, but the other name is easily explained. Many a person has mistaken the leaves of the Manitoba Maple for those of the Ash, but such a mistake could not be made in the spring, for at that season the flowers and fruit of the tree are plainly those of a Maple; the fruits are typical winged samaras which are characteristic marks of maples in any continent. It is native in Ontario only in the northwestern corner that borders on Manitoba. It is used for street planting in Southern Ontario because through its rapid growth it fills up empty spaces very quickly. Otherwise it has very little to commend it.

SHEPHERD—TAYLOR

A wedding of much interest took place in St. George's Church, St.
 Catharines, on Nov. 19th, when Diana Isabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thornton Taylor, was married to Mr. Douglas Evan Shepherd, son of Mr. and Mrs.
 George Shepherd, Beamsville.

The ceremony, during which boy choristers sang, was performed by the rector, the Rev. P. R. Beattie, and the bride's uncle, the Rev.
 Norman Taylor, Toronto.

Candles burned on either side of the altar on which were white chrysanthemums; ferns were grouped at the chancel steps.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of lustrous white satin, made on classic lines, the skirt flowing from a stiffed yoke of smocking into a full circular train. Her veil fell from a coronet of smocked satin and she carried a spray of Calla lilies.

Attending her were Mrs. Bryson Shambhau, matron of honour, the little Misses Sharon Sham-bhau and Terry Taylor, wearing flamingo crepe. Mrs. Shambhau's gown was made with draped bodice and loose panels, and her headdress was of matching crepe, caught at either side with a cluster of matching curved oak feathers. She carried a cascade of white aster-mums. The frocks of the junior attendants were made with full floor-length skirts. They wore circlets of white matching flowers in little white baskets.

Mr. Richard Sharpe was groomsman and the ushers were Mr.
 Charles Wilcox and Mr. David Mountain, Beamsville, and Mr.
 Crozier Taylor.

Mr. Eric Dowling played the wedding music and the chimbells pealed as the bridal party left the church.

Mrs. Taylor wore powder blue crepe with matching hat, trimmed with blue hackle feathers and Mrs.
 Shepherd chose plum crepe and small hat of orchid felt with feather accent.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor held a reception at their home on Yates St., the bride and groom leaving later for the States and will return through Quebec.

For travelling the bride wore a suit and topcoat of Harris tweed in brown and gold tone, a brown hat and accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd will be in Beamsville.

STUDENT PERSONALITY

A good looking, dark-haired 16 year old girl by the name of Francis Striffler is our student personality for this week. She is a member of the grade 11 class.

Francis would like to be a lab technician but she said that her marks in Chemistry soon swayed her from this idea. A secretary is more in her line as her marks in Commercial are quite good so we are told. Her real ambition, though is to travel around the world.

Why? Oh, just for the heck of it.
 When asked about her opinion of G.H.S. she replied that she liked the sports, but she thought there were too many extra-curricular activities. In her spare time she listens to the radio and goes for walks up the mountain. In the winter sleigh riding takes up a good part of her time. In the summer she works at Arthel's as a part time stenographer.

CLUB NEWS
 The Athletic Club had a meeting last week and made preparations for a basketball game and dance in the near future.

The History Club had its usual meeting last Tuesday. A supper meeting was planned for the next meeting. Jennie Klowak gave us an interesting talk on Tito and Yugoslavians.

The properties department of the Dramatic Club had a meeting to plan for the play to be put on at Commencement next Friday night.

GENERAL NEWS
 A bus trip for the entire student body to the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto on Monday was both highly educational and entertaining.

At 6:30 a.m., four bus loads of students left G.H.S. for the trip to the Fair. By the time of their arrival in Toronto, 9:45 a.m., the students were wide awake and ready to see everything possible.

Some of the outstanding things were: exceptionally fine displays of vegetables and fruits, tropical fish, horses, cattle, swine, poultry, new model cars, flowers, rabbits, ducks and geese. The lovely display of apples attracted the attention of practically all the hungry students.

Many were interested in the dwarf cattle and spent much time watching them. Those not so interested in the animals spent much of their time admiring the flowers, etc. The farm equipment appealed to many, while others studied the new cars and wished that they could have them.

Those who attended the Horse Show were greatly taken with the brown and white Palomino horse which moved so lightly that its hoofs seemed never to touch the ground. The highlight of the show was, however, the musical ride of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. It was a sight not soon forgotten, for the Mounties in their scarlet coats, carrying lances and riding jet black horses, made a very impressive scene.

The buses left for home at 5:05
 p.m. and arrived back at Grimsby at 6:30 p.m. with the tired but happy students.

Three cheers for the bus drivers who deserve a lot of credit for putting up with all our noise, both going to and coming from Toronto.

ASSEMBLY
 Grade XI was in charge of the Friday morning assembly last November 18. Their presentation was on a subject which concerns every student in the school, namely "homework." Through seven "variations on the theme" the actors of XI managed to portray the different environments of students doing homework. The scenes were as follows:

1. The student with a clever family.
2. The student whose family just doesn't give him a chance.
3. The party-line homework.
4. The contortionist.
5. The hen-party.
6. The perfect student.
7. The teacher does his homework.

The Grade XI presentation rates merit in the fact that the script was written by the students and Mr. Vaughan.

NICKEL HOP
 The G.H.S. Executive has come

UKRAINIAN CATHOLICS HOLD MEMORIAL DAY

The month of November is commemorated by the Ukrainians as a national memorial for the heroes dead who sacrificed their lives in defense of their native land. During this month the Ukrainians pay homage to their beloved dead soldiers with religious services and formal festivities.

"November Day," as they call it, is cherished by all Ukrainians, for on this day, November 1st, 1918, the flag of a free Ukrainian Nation once more waved over their homeland after 515 years of continuous aggression from the neighbouring countries. The sight of their beloved flag unfurling its proud colours of yellow and blue over the roof-tops of towns and cities caused tears of inexpressible joy to trickle down their cheeks. The blood of their forefathers, the sweat and tears of their sons have not been shed in vain. Finally they have obtained a free and independent nation.

But their rejoice at freedom was brief. The aggression of the western and eastern neighbours brought them back into a gory war. Within the space of two or more years the enemies marched into their capital over the bodies of their dead countrymen. Again the people of Ukraine were crushed by superior powers and subjected to the relentless rule of their aggressors.

Then came the Second World War arousing new hopes in the hearts of Ukraine for freedom. Again this freedom-loving nation took up arms, fathers leaving behind their families, husbands their wives and children, sons their homes, each one willing to sacrifice that what he cherished most in order to liberate his country from the oppressive yoke of the enemy. However out-flanked by the overwhelming forces of the enemy the Ukrainian people found themselves behind the Iron Curtain and subjected to the peremptory rule of Communism.

Although these attempts to liberate Ukraine were ineffectual, the hope of a free Ukrainian nation still kindles in their hearts.

In addition, November 1st is the 5th Anniversary of the martyrdom of the Metropolitan Andrew Sheptycky — the great defender of the principles of the Ukrainian Church and rights of the Ukrainian people, thus increasing the significance of the eventful day. Therefore the Ukrainian Catholics of St. Mary's celebrated these anniversaries on Sunday night, November 20th. Rejoicing this occasion a sermon on the importance of remembering our fallen heroes was delivered by Rev. Father S. Fedyniak, F.S.D., O.S.B.M.

Following the religious service, the youth of the parish arranged a musical concert in the parish hall assisted by the male-choir of Welland, Ontario. The opening address was delivered by Mr. Wasyly Bytyk, Dr. J. Spolyak of Toronto spoke on the history of Ukraine, followed by Rev. Father N. Swirsky, O.S.B.M., commemorating the late Metropolitan Sheptycky. To solemnize this momentous occasion, a replica of the Unknown Soldier's grave was erected on the stage. A Ukrainian flag — and emblem of loyalty to a great cause, covered the grave mound. On the head of the monument stood a birch cross — symbol of his faith. At the foot of the cross was placed a wreath in tribute to the dead. In the background of crimson-red velvet decorated with streamers of national colors hung an attractive portrait of the late Metropolitan Sheptycky.

"CHRISTOPHER BEAN" WOWED BIG AUDIENCES

(By Don Niche)

All we can say, after seeing "The Late Christopher Bean" at the High School Auditorium last Friday evening, is that a great many people missed some great entertainment.

If your eyes were a trifle tired from looking at too many Grade B movies, as this correspondent's were, you found out how really refreshing this presentation was. You sat back in your seat and really enjoyed yourself as you watched the great comedy unfold before you on the stage. Everyone who saw the play — nearly 400 persons — seemed to sincerely like what they saw. They were entertained in great style and they'll be back again for more of the same.

"The Late Christopher Bean" was by far the best production the Players' Guild have ever presented. The story itself was a good one to begin with — the comedy ran on Broadway for months, and generally is considered one of the best ever written for the theatre. The Guild, then, chose a play they could do something with. And they did.

The casting was perfect. Everyone, with no exceptions, seemed to be a "natural" for the part. It was the first local play I'd ever seen where the characters seemed real. Each member of the cast appeared to be living their role, as a result the action was very natural and the dialogue unforced and believable. The humour came spontaneously; the few dramatic spots were far above the Guild's average, and the play ran along smoothly, making the story very clear and easy to follow. That's what made it good; that's what made it such a wonderful surprise to the audience, who hadn't expected such an outstanding performance.

Individually the performances were excellent. Owen Patterson, playing a character a great deal older than himself, was remarkable. He used his fine sense of comedy to surpass anything he had ever done for the Guild previously. Shirley Heathcote, in a very difficult role, gave a terrific performance, combining some really fine dramatic acting with some good comedy. Audrey Bowers was perfect, very natural; Jay Mack as the other daughter did extremely well with a part that was a real acting challenge and convinced me completely in her portrayal of stupid young Ada. Nobody could have played the pretentious Mrs. Haggitt like Maile Cullingford, a terrific bit of casting. Ed Mack was a natural, confident and completely at home. George Winklemore, though miscast slightly, did very well. Len Bromley handled his dis- abled like a professional, stayed right in character all through the play. Gil Hyerson, with his natural New England accent and some great inflecting, added a great deal of real comedy to his part as Warren Creamer. Here was by far the most comical character in the play.

Undoubtedly though, a great deal of the credit for the success of "The Late Christopher Bean" goes to Molly Lucas the Director. Some very adroit manipulation on the small stage got rid of all awkwardness. In fact, to keep the players from bumping into each other every few minutes was a job in itself. Molly really came through with a fine overall performance.

From a production standpoint "The Late Christopher Bean" was wonderful too. It was an elaborate stage, correct in every detail. Don Copeland and his crew must have put a lot of work into the set and they certainly produced a very realistic result.

To sum up, the Grimsby Players' Guild excelled themselves. It was a terrific production — if the next two are as good they'll be sellouts. The expert, Roy Irving, the adjudicator from the Western Ontario Drama League thought so too. The chances are the Guild will be invited to present their play at the Western Ontario Drama Festival in the new year.

I just can't save money!

That's what I used to say, and it was true. Sometimes I'd dream of the day when I'd have time and leisure to do all the things I wanted to do, but I had to admit I wasn't doing anything about it except dream. I never seemed to be able to put anything aside.

Now, I know those dreams will come true. They're guaranteed.

Through a simple saving plan which, strangely enough, I've found involves no hardship, I am now saving money for the first time in my life.

BEACH WOLF CUBS

The Grimsby Beach Wolf Cubs new Senior Sixer, Doug Young, took the opening howl at Friday's meeting in the Pack den. The routine business of inspection etc., was quickly attended to and the Cubs divided into two groups, one for painting, and the other to work on 1st Star tests.

Delicate pastel shades for the final coat of paint on the flower containers completed the theme in a most attractive way. Akela and the older Cubs made an efficient work team and finished up the projects in jig-time, and with a minimum of pastel shaded Cubs' fingers, noses, etc.

Doug Young assisted Bagheera with the industrious group of Cubs working to pass their 1st Star tests. Bob Overholt, Byron Englund, Jimmy Poyton, were successful in passing their "Union Jacks," while Roman Shevick and Doug Durham got their "Time."

Three cheers rattled the rafters when Akela produced the boxing gloves! The bouts that ensued were short ones but extremely spectacular and truly spirited. Good Hunting, Cubs!

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Julia Carpenter and Mrs. Addie-Lou McCollum.

MRS. O. F. BARTMAN SPEAKS AT WINONA

"Today's Children — Tomorrow" was the topic dealt with by Mrs. O. F. Bartman, in an address to the large crowd of parents and friends attending Open House at Winona Public School, Monday, November 14th. The meeting was opened by the chairman, John Morrill, a trustee of the school, and the speaker was introduced by Mrs. K. C. Millikin.

Mrs. Bartman, formerly a teacher, specialized in school work and kindergarten classes, and studied at Akron University, Akron, Ohio, and Western University. She told the crowd that parents should keep their word, that children imitate their parents even unconsciously. If a parent threatens punishment, then fails to carry it out, the child can hardly be blamed for paying little heed to parents' admonishments. Environment, and the morale of the parents shape the child's character, she emphasized, and if parents do not keep their word, their commands mean nothing, and there can be no honesty in their children. Another mistake of the average parent, she said, was praising children in front of others, thereby inflating their egos, and inviting them to develop "show-off" in their nature. But, she cautioned, in an effort to avoid this fault, parents should not lean over too far the other way and make the child feel inferior to his playmates by having constantly pointed out to him. Praising often will only serve to foster an inferiority complex in the child, and cause a hearty dislike of the other children so praised. Mrs. Bartman covered many interesting points in her speech, and ended by stressing that it was home environment, and the habits of that home that shapes the future of the child of today. Ralph Macklin thanked the speaker.

The pupils of Winona Public School entertained with songs, "Hush! Hush!" and "John Peel." The Women's Institute Award of $5.00 was then presented to James Sogars, for the second highest entrance class marks in the past year. Five pupils presented short speeches, of five minutes each. That were to be given by them later at the Stoney Creek Public School contest in Public Speaking. Laurel Corke, spoke on "Ice-land," Lillian Bauer on "Squirrels," and John Lintack dealt with the "See-Ing Eye Dog." Barbara Jean Hall spoke on "Destroy Ragweed and Destroy on 'Destroy Ragweed and Destroy Hay Fever,'" and Doris Williams spoke on "Newfoundland."

The meeting was closed with God Save The King, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. K. C. Millikin, Mrs. William Utter and Mrs. Glen Reinke.

The 1st Anniversary of the Fifty Ued Church at Winona was observed on Sunday morning November 21st, at the 11:35 service, and the evening at the 7:30 service. Any worshippers came to the beautifully decorated church, and made the occasion a memorable one for the church. At the morning service the sermon was given by Rev. W. J. Preston, B.A., B.I. of First United Church, Hamilton. In the evening an inspiring sermon was delivered by Rev. Jan McLennan, of Stoney Creek Presbyterian Church. Morrow.

HAROLD BARON SPEAKS TO A.Y.P.A. FRIDAY

The A.Y.P.A. held a big evening last Friday, when they entertained a large group of visitors from the Church of the Good Shepherd in St. Catharines. An excellent speaker was present, with Harold Baron, Past President of the Dominion A.Y.P.A., who spoke on the "Christian Challenge to Capitalism." In his address he stressed the important problem of today, that of people becoming spectators in the activities offered by a modern world, rather than participants. With the arrival of moving pictures, radio, spectator sports especially, he said the inclination was growing to "just sit and watch." Tracing the history of capitalism from its beginning to the present day, he made a speech which was enjoyed by all present. Refreshments and games were enjoyed afterwards, with all taking part in the fun.

ANNIVERSARY SUPPER AT FIFTY CHURCH

On Monday evening, November 21st, the 130th Anniversary of the Fifty United Church was observed with the ladies of the Women's Association giving a church supper at 6:30. The supper was under the convener'ship of Mrs. Glen Reinke, president of the W.A., and with the assistance of the group, a most successful supper was enjoyed. The hall was overcrowded and both the excellent cooking and the nicely decorated tables made an appeal to all. Following the supper, a program was presented with Ruby Ramsey House, Staff Organist of Radio Station CFRB as guest artist. Miss Rouse provided a delightful variety of organ music, and was introduced by Rev. G. E. Morrow. She was thanked on behalf of the congregation by the organist and choir-master of the church, George Smith, and their appreciation expressed by him. Two solos were given by Miss Irene Wardrop of Hamilton, bringing to a close a happy and important evening.

SPORTRAYAL

By "HIGH" MCGREGOR

The Big Six Senior "B" League closes on February 10th. On that date the Peach Kings will have gained a playoff berth. They will be in first place.

Okay, so you think this is a bit premature. Well, let us assure you that this is not a case of fact. If the Kings were to ride along in third or fourth spot, we believe the fans would be more likely to get behind them throughout the season, and not wait for the playoffs. We have seen what has been tied up for the Kings this season, and what we seen . . . we liked tremendously.

We're quite aware of the fact that at last two other teams in this loop are considerably stronger than last year, but do not consider it audacious to claim first spot for our guys even with this factor considered. The Kings will win fourteen at least, which will be sufficient to give them the league championship come February 10.

The Kings will probably lose this Friday's game to Brantford. Due to the difference in conditioning, it would indeed be a great upset if they beat the Bell City squad, a little item that they take great pleasure in doing at any time. We do think they will have to wait a while, however, before whacking the men of Yablonski down to size.

With but three practice sessions under their belts, and all of them on poor ice at the Barton Ice Works, the Kings have a lot of conditioning to do before they start and play two-way hockey for three full periods. Certainly this was definitely ascertained in the league opener on Monday night.

About goaltenders, Jerry Strong and Don Roach appeared in this department to be more than capable of filling the vacancy created by the moving of one Dennis Leeson to the Cleveland chain this year. Denny was as popular a goalie as the Kings ever signed, and his leaving for a higher bracket undoubtedly left a void in the Peach King fold. Unless we are very much mistaken both Strong and Roach will draw the raves of the fans. The only difficulty is that Coach Artie Clark will have to make a choice of the two . . . a choice that he can have it's a most difficult choice to make. And then there is always Mert Prophet. He hum!

Fud Reid sat this game out, and we are sorry to say that the Beamsville defenseman may not perform this season at all. This being the case, the Kings will lose a most valuable player and a great guy to have on any team. Reid is still bothered with a back injury sustained in Fort Erie last season, that plus the fact that he is embarking on a campaign to foster minor hockey in his home town may keep him from donning a Peach King uniform. At this writing his mind is not entirely made up as to his plans for the winter. We can't but hope that he will be out there with the fine team the Kings are bound to have this season.

Barry Blanchard, who tried out with the Tigers this fall, donned a PK uniform for the league opener, and the Rocket was one of the few men on the team to show to good advantage . . . thanks to his pre-season conditioning. Along with Warner and Duffield, Blanchard's line looked like a bright prospect for the future. The Rocket had great season with the Kings last year, and we think will be even better this winter.

Following the game in Brantford this Friday, the Kings will practice over the weekend, and then take on Paris here on Grimsby this Tuesday, November 29th. Paris, an Intermediate "A" club, gave Port Colborne a great run in a recent game, and will be plenty tough for the Kings in this exhibition tilt, which comes just three days before the big opening game here on December 2nd.

That's booster night, and if you haven't procured your tickets yet, how about doing so right now. The Jaycoos and Mike Sweet are competing for the championship as far as booster ticket sales are concerned.

Speaking of Mike, the "expert" was jubilant following Monday's game. Mike comes right out and claims another championship for the Kings, which should make McVicar and Clark sleep a lot better. They know, only too well, that unless Mr. Peachking himself is satisfied . . . they have not picked a good team. Mike predicts the Kings will win their first game in the league opener here. The storage plant ran into some unforeseen difficulties, which have held up the initial flooding of the arena. If the ideal weather conditions . . . perfect for flooding . . . held out this week, it is quite possible that the Kings may be working out on Grimsby ice by the weekend.

BOILED OVER . . . Almost half the crowd at the league opener in Port Colborne consisted of Peach King fans . . . Included was one of the most ardent sport fans in the town . . . Murray James, a fan who has to take his sport from a wheelchair. Bob Little, a real companion for Murray, was right on the job, too. With the enlarged press box at the arena, I wouldn't be surprised if arrangements could be made to have Murray and Bob as our guests at home games this winter.

JUNIOR EACH BELT LEAGUES FORMED

It took series of meetings for the Junior Peach Belt League to get matters ironed out, but now everything appears to be in ship-shape, and as soon as ice is available at the arena, the league will operate a juvenile league, and a Saturday afternoon league for district night teams.

The proposed six team loop will operate on Wednesday night, using three hours; starting at seven o'clock. To the Beamsville, Grimsby, Stoney Creek, Fruitland and Winona have signified their intention of entering. Smithville has been approached, and are giving considerable thought towards making up the sixth team. Failing this, the executive will try a couple of other places in the district, and it is possible that Grimsby will field two teams in the loop.

The midweek series will consist of four teams from the upper regions of Lincoln and Wentworth, with a midweek entry from Grimsby and Beamsville. The Grimsby midweekers are likely to be sponsored by the Optimist Club, while the newly formed Beamsville Athletic Association will look after both the midweek and juvenile teams. The age limit for juvenile players was established at eighteen years of age . . . eighteen before November 1st of the current year.

The Peach Belt League can perform a valuable service to the youngsters of the district, and is likely to help mould future junior calibre players. Juvenile hockey players are asked to contact the following men in their home districts:

Science turned their backs on the target

Science is playing an increasingly important role in Canada's new Army. In heavy anti-aircraft, for example, complex radar equipment predicts to within a few feet exactly where the target is and will be. The gunners, their backs to the target, fire with amazing accuracy by instrument.

Training men in the use of modern scientific equipment is a major requirement in Canada's new Army. Thousands of young men are attending some of the finest schools in the country, specializing in electronics, radar, radio and telephone. In addition, there are openings for clerks, drivers, mechanics and many other trades.

New higher pay, good food and quarters, trades training and the opportunity for advancement make the Canadian Army Active Force one of the most attractive careers open to young men today. You are eligible if you are 17 or over and can meet Army requirements. Visit your nearest recruiting office soon for full details. Bring certificates of birth and education with you.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

Hockey's
First!

The rules of the rink have changed greatly since hockey's first organized game . . . 74 years ago.

It was a March day in 1875. The indoor ice of Montreal's Victoria Skating Rink was a swirl of uniformed figures. Spectators who lined the walls were watching the first attempt to organize the increasingly popular game of hockey.

The teams had been reduced to nine men a side . . . each with a definite position to cover. Instead of the familiar rubber ball, a flat, round block of wood was being used. And for the first time, the goals were protected by goaltenders. Regulation hockey had been born.

Hockey holds a proud tradition of sportsmanship for Canadians. And Canadian teamwork has made us world leaders in the game. Together, sportsmanship and teamwork are working for you . . . by keeping your opportunities for work and play in Canada . . . unlimited.

HAND MADE WATCH

origin is not inscribed on any of its many parts, it has been estimated by accredited authorities to have been made around 1840. The watch, made of silver, has a most ornate face with large gold numerals. Two keys are supplied, one of which is used for winding, the other for turning the hands. The latter is made of gold, and is the original key.

A unique feature of the time-piece is the "bicycle chain action," a factor predominant in all watches of that era. The watch was made in Bathgate, listed as a suburb of Edinburgh, and came to the Thomson family in 1880, when a gentleman, who was listed as a man of great means, presented it to David Thomson Sr., grandfather of the present owner. The actual inscription reads: Presented at Edinburgh to David Thomson, by Mr. T. Liddell as a mark of respect. 28 of September, 1880.

This man Liddell, of whom very little is known, was a very great friend of Thomson Sr., who was a tinsmith by trade.

At his death, David C. Thomson, father of the present owner, tucked the watch in his vest, and until his death in 1937, the watch never lost a minute. And now, some twelve years later, David Thomson of Grimsby still abides by this timepiece and being a true Scot, naturally has no fear of it ever ceasing to function.

TRESPASS RULED

In reviewing the case, Judge Darby found that Miss Dixon had visited the office of the department in Toronto in August, 1948, for the purpose of obtaining a permit for a sign. There was no responsible official in the office at the time and stenographers on duty told her that no permits for signs on the Queen Elizabeth Way were being issued.

Very much put out at this, Miss Dixon expressed her determination to erect a sign, and, if necessary, to protect her sign and property against anyone who would attempt to trespass on her lands.

"I said that anyone who tried to take it down would get a 'fanny full of rock salt,'" Miss Dixon said. Miss Dixon was ready to protect what she felt were her rights in the case. "I told them at the office they had better have some one come out and show me where to put the sign."

A few days later a Mr. Cole, an inspector of the department, visited El Rancho Casablanca and both told and showed Miss Dixon where she could put the sign. He indicated, according to Judge Darby's interpretation, that she might erect the sign and that a form of approval would be forthcoming. The sign was erected, but no form of approval was ever received.

On Oct. 2, 1948, Wrightman interviewed Miss Dixon. He was ignorant of Mr. Cole's former visit. He had noticed the sign while driving past her property one day and after consultation with Mr. Fairs, supervisor of the Permit Branch, "entered enthusiastically upon an investigation which included the surreptitious entry upon the plaintiff's property to take photographs."

On learning of Mr. Cole's previous visit Wrightman left the matter in abeyance to the time with both Mr. Fairs and with J. D. Miller, Deputy-Minister of Highways. The Deputy-Minister told Mr. Fairs "to have the sign removed and the parties duly notified."

"Presumably the Deputy-Minister was wishing the court to believe that this message which he gave to Mr. Fairs was the notice contemplated by the regulations," Judge Darby commented. "I do not see this. It was only a message, and he it noted that if the Deputy-Minister was authorized to exercise the powers of the Minister then the notice in question should have come from him and not transmitted as a message through Mr. Fairs."

On Nov. 27, 1948, Wrightman again arrived at El Rancho Casablanca, this time accompanied by two provincial constables, and cut down the sign.

"Only after obtaining the assistance of the two provincial constables, which action ought to be condemned in the strongest terms, the defendant, in a surreptitious manner, entered upon the land of the plaintiff, after again trespassing on the land of Mr. Ullman, (a next door neighbour and a witness in the case) and cut down the sign, with the result that it later broke in two and was damaged to some extent," Judge Darby found.

"I do not find that the defendant did this work with reluctance and only on the instruction of the Minister of Highways. I think the defendant approached his task with the enthusiasm of the modern Nimrod, and having tracked down his quarry, was quite eager to be in on the kill."

For some reason, (no doubt engendered to some extent by the remarks of the plaintiff while she was in Toronto), there appears to be a definite feeling of antagonism among the department officials against this plaintiff. Judge Darby's judgment continued, "so that it is quite understandable when the defendant told the witness Ullman that if the plaintiff attempted to use her gun on him he 'would kick her teeth down her throat.'" year 1949: St. Catharines General Hospital, $5,000; West Lincoln Memorial Hospital, $1,500; Niagara Cottage Hospital, $1,000. The council also referred the question of group insurance for county employees to the finance sub-committee for further study and report.

MAKE GRANTS

During the sessions of the Industrial Home Committee under the chairmanship of Reeve W. L. Patterson of Niagara-on-the-Lake, the council authorized the action of the Board of Management of the Home in appealing against local improvement charges and assessment of the Home by the Township of Gratham.

At a recent meeting of the Board of directors, the Solicitor was instructed to appeal against the levy of $448 for the years 1944-49 by Gratham on the Home for local improvement charges and assessment of the Home land and buildings for general taxation. The Solicitor was instructed to appeal to the Gratham Court of Revision and failing to get relief there to appeal to the county judge.

The council approved the action of the board and later in the day when Solicitor Rogers announced that the Gratham Court of Revision had reserved judgment in the case, instructed him to appeal to the county judge in the case of an adverse decision. This action was taken due to the fact that an appeal must be made within ten days of the judgment, which will probably be handed down prior to the next meeting of council.

Reports on the work of the General Administration Committee of the council and the Road Committee for the past month were presented at the sessions by Chairmen Reeve Ivan D. Buchanan of Gratham Township and Reeve Harold Freese of Clinton Township. Both reports were approved by council and the monthly report of Road Superintendent F. E. Weir on revenue and expenditure in the road department for the month was accepted.

FACTS and FANCIES

INDIGNANT OVER ACTION OF HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

When Lincoln County's learned jurist, Judge Thomas J. Darby, handed down his decision in the El Rancho Casablanca case, little did he know what a fine reception it would receive from the general public, the taxpayers, in all parts of the Province, but that judgment has been received by the general public with wide open arms.

It has come to a pretty state of affairs when a government department can tell a citizen, or a group of citizens, that they cannot do business despite the fact that that individual, or group of individuals, have thousands upon thousands of dollars tied up in that particular business.

That is just the case here. El Rancho Casablanca owner, Miss Mildred Dixon, has over $75,000 invested. Her next door neighbour, W. O. Ullman, has a like amount tied up in Cobblestone Lodge. A total investment of $150,000. Now why should any department of the Ontario Government, or one of its hirelings say you cannot advertise those businesses by the erection of signs. Or, in other words, let the travelling public pass right by the door without knowing that you are in business, and at the same time the travelling public, particularly the American tourist, is on the look out for your particular type of business.

This situation does not apply solely to the two establishments named above, but it applies to Lakeside Cabins, where Edward and Alice Hand have over $25,000 invested in high class tourist cabins. It also applies to dozens of other places in the Niagara district.

When you close these places down, or cause them to close down because they are not allowed to tell the travelling public that they exist, you not only cause the operators of the places to lose their investment, but you cause the merchants and other concerns that supply them with foodstuffs and other products, to suffer a loss of revenue. And all this for why?

You also cause the municipalities in which they are located to lose heavy taxation. Take El Rancho Casablanca and Cobblestone Lodge for instance. It is not too many years back that the property where they are located was just a hayfield, and a non-producing hayfield at that. The Township of North Grimsby was getting only a few measly dollars in taxes. Today Miss Dixon and Mr. Ullman are heavy taxpayers in the township. If they are not allowed to do business, who loses? The Township of North Grimsby.

That people in other municipalities outside of Grimsby are interested in the fact that the Department of Highways is taking public funds to plant trees in order to screen signboards of legitimate business places where they have been unable to remove them legally, or illegally, is exemplified by the following letter which appeared in the Letters To The Editor column of The Hamilton Spectator on Wednesday night last. Here's the letter:

"The other afternoon, I saw what I believe to be evidence of a malicious act of vengeance perpetrated by some member of the Department of Highways against a taxpayer of this province. In doing so, I think it is fair to assume that he used government equipment and public funds."

"I am so indignant about this that I feel impelled to write to you at some length. I refer to the planting of a large number of poplar trees along the Queen Elizabeth Way in such a manner that a restaurant will eventually be completely hidden from passing motorists. This may materially interfere with the ability of the proprietor to earn a living."

"As I make frequent trips from Hamilton to St. Catharines along this highway, I know that similar planting of poplar trees between these points has not been done for any reason whatsoever. I have also noticed that there has been no planting of other trees or shrubs along this piece of road for several years, although such an expenditure of tax funds might well be justified on the grounds of beautifying the highway or from the standpoint of increased safety."

"The poplar trees referred to were planted immediately following a ruling handed down by Mr. Justice Thomas J. Darby in a dispute between the restaurant proprietor and an employee of the Department of Highways. This coincidence and the absence of such planting elsewhere on this road strongly suggest that their purpose was one of revenge."

"I am not primarily concerned with the personalities involved nor with the question of what signs should be permitted on the Queen Elizabeth Way. However, I am deeply concerned that an employee of an important government department can avenge himself on another citizen by the use of his position, if such is the case, by interfering with lawful business."

"During the present term of office of the Conservative Party in Ontario, I have had the privilege of numbering among my friends a number of Ministers of this and that previous Cabinet. I feel quite convinced that none of them would tolerate such a misuse of public funds and such inexcusable high-handedness."

"If this action has been committed by some minor official, as I firmly believe, without higher authority, some remedial action by the department should be taken immediately. If this man received instructions or permission for his actions from some senior official in the department, which I find impossible to believe, it would be necessary for the Minister to make sure that such arbitrary and undemocratic behaviour cannot occur in the future."

"If I am correct in my belief that some minor official has used public funds in a personal vendetta, it becomes of grave import to every freedom-loving citizen unless prompt steps are taken by the department concerned to correct the injustice done."

PIE-EATING JUVENILE RUNS FOUL OF POLICE

Young Lad Robs Same House Three Times At Grassie—Helped Himself To The Pie.

A burning desire to eat pie, was actually instrumental in the ultimate apprehension by Chief of Police William James and Constable Calvin McKenna, of a fourteen-year-old Saltfleet Township boy who is now under investigation by Provincial Police, led by investigating officer, Frank Conney.

The juvenile entered a home at Grassie, not once but three times over a three week interval. Each time he stole money that the wife of the Grassie farmer had saved this summer picking fruit. The first time, the boy took $19 all in American currency. He also ate up the biggest portion of a pie. The second time he entered the home, he took $20 in Canadian currency, and ate some more pie. His previous escapades proving Shown in front of the sign is Miss Mildred V. Dixon, owner of El Rancho Casablanca receiving congratulations from J. Orton Livingston, Editor of The Independent, upon the game fight that she has put up, and upon standing upon her rights as a taxpayer citizen. MUNICIPAL OFFICIALS FAIL TO REACH WATER AGREEMENT

NECESSARY TO CURB DICTATORIAL ATTITUDE

Over-Zealous Authority Is Rebuked By Decision Handed Down By County Judge Thomas J. Darby.

(An editorial in the Port Colborne Welland Tribune)

History of the ages has shown there is a limit to which free men will submit to unwarranted dictation by those who, for the time being, happen to be in a position of authority.

A case in point—and it was a woman this time who had the temerity to fight for what she considered her rights—was that of Miss Mildred Dixon of Grimsby, who won an award in her favour from Judge Thomas J. Darby.

Miss Dixon had inquired at the offices of the Provincial Department of Highways regarding the erection of a sign for her restaurant on the Queen Elizabeth Way. She testified she was told by a stenographer that permits along the Queen Elizabeth Way were not being issued, but later an official visited her at her place of business, told her where to place the sign and that a form of approval would be forthcoming. The ap-

Ontario Municipal Board Will Now Be Asked To Set A Fair Price — Commission Offered To Set Price At 26 Cents A 1,000 Gallons For First 25 Million Gallons.

Following a suggestion made by the Ontario Municipal Board, members of North Grimsby Township Council and the Grimsby Water Commission met in an effort to reach an amicable settlement on the price of water. They failed to reach a settlement, however, and the Municipal Board will be asked to set the price.

For some time, the local Water Commission has been charging the township a rate of 26 cents per 1,000 gallons, a rate considerably higher than that charged large consumers in town. Township asked the Municipal Board to set a price and a meeting was held recently at St. Catharines. At that meeting, the town solicitor questioned the right of the Municipal Board to take such action and the board's suggestion that the two municipalities "try to get together on a price."

At the recent meeting, the Water Commission agreed to drop its price to 26 cents per 1,000 gallons for the first 25 million and 22 cents for the balance, this price to be

COBBLESTONE LODGE WILL BE SCREENED

Hoisted into prominence by the planting of a long row of poplar trees was the property of Mr. W. O. Ullman, manager of Cobblestone Lodge which is located right next to El Rancho Casablanca. Ullman testified in Miss Dixon's behalf in the recent court case pertaining to the erection of signs, and in the part of his testimony stated that Wrightman of the Department of Highways told him "that he would shove her teeth (Miss Dixon's) right down her throat if she caused any more trouble. Cobblestone Lodge will be screened by the trees just as effectively as will El Rancho Casablanca. Ullman told The Independent that his business had been very successful this summer, having catered to over two thousand tourists. Both Mr. Ullman and Miss Dixon have signified their intention of not giving up without a fight. They are reported to be backed up by other unnamed tourist resort operators in the district.
